CARTHAGE COLLEGE BULLETIN

FOR THOSE WHO WISH

Carthage Offers New Oppor

Today more and more young people are serving the Church as lay workers. The Church considers these individuals as essential contributors to the great cause of Christianity in the world.

For those who wish to serve the Church as lay workers, Carthage College offers new opportunities through its Christian Education Course.

The course has been designed to prepare young people to become outstanding educational workers, such as Directors of Christian Education, Student Service Workers, Parish Workers, Youth Directors and Missionaries.

The course will meet the needs of those who are preparing for graduate study in Christian Education. It also offers excellent preparation for young women who are interested in entering the Motherhouse to become deaconesses.

(The Christian Education Course will also fulfill the requirements for those desiring to enter the ministry.)

A regular part of the college's curriculum, the course is under the supervision of the Department of Religion and Philosophy.

ınities

So that you get the most out of any course, top-notch instruction is essential. At Carthage College, absolutely the best in instruction is offered.

Three Ph.D.'s instruct in the college's Christian Education Course. Each professor is fully qualified to teach in this field, having fulfilled years of practical experience.

Carthage's Christian Education Course is under the supervision of the Department of Religion and philosophy. Heading the Department of Religion is Dr. Altman K. Swihart, who received his Ph.D. degree from Columbia University.

Dr. Swihart, who has been on the Carthage campus since 1948, has also done post-doctorate study at Harvard University and Strasbourg University in France. He is author of the book "Since Mrs. Eddy" and has written miscellaneous articles for magazines and periodicals.

Heading the Department of Philosophy is Dr. Merle Boyer, a member of the Carthage faculty since 1943. Dr. Boyer received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago and served for several years in the parish ministry before coming to Carthage.

A well-known author, Dr. Boyer has written "Language and Religion in the Light of the Analysis of Signs", "Everyman's Adventure", and "Highways of Philosophy". He has also written several articles for such magazines and periodicals as "The Lutheran", "Lutheran Church Quarterly", "Christendom", "Journal of Liberal Religion", and "Sursum Corda".

The third instructor for the Christian Education Course is Dr. Robert B. Clark. Dr. Clark received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago and also serves as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in the City of Carthage. He has been a member of the Carthage College faculty since 1947.

For the "success-minded" student, Carthage offers unusual opportunities in business training. Students may earn a bachelor of arts degree (requiring foreign language credits), a bachelor of science degree (no foreign language requirements) or a special proficiency certificate. Majors and minors are offered in business administration, business education and secretarial training. Students may specialize in a particular field of business such as accounting, or they may, if they choose, take a general course which will prepare them in the many fields of business endeavor.

Business administration enrolls more students than any other department of the college. The double major system permits a student to qualify himself in two fields which broadens his horizon in securing a challenging position upon graduation. Students may therefore combine a business major with home economics, science, music or any other course offered at the college.

Business Administration

This course is designed for students wishing to prepare for junior or senior executive and other positions in business. A broad, comprehensive and thorough training is provided in the many phases of business. In all courses there is a positive accent on the practical as well as the theoretical aspects of the subject. The liberal arts courses required of all graduates form a rich and varied background that will be exceptionally valuable on the job.

business administration

secretarial training

There is a growing trend on the part of business and industrial firms to require some typing and shorthand ability of college graduates hired into their organizations. For this reason, Carthage offers opportunities not only for students who wish to specialize in secretarial training, but also to those who wish to augment their academic training with these practical skills.

Carthage offers a one-year stenographic course and a two-year secretarial course. These courses include the usual business training as well as basic liberal arts subjects. It is possible, of course, for students to minor in secretarial training while majoring in some other field. A certificate of proficiency is granted to all students who satisfactorily complete the course.

Business Education

For those who desire to teach business or commercial courses, a full four-year business education course is offered. Most students take a major in education in addition to their major in business. This permits them to satisfy the requirements for a certificate to teach in high schools. A supervised practice teaching program is conducted in conjunction with the local high school. Some of the courses available in this program are shorthand and typewriting methods, business communications, office management and practice and bookkeeping teaching methods.

To assist graduates in obtaining positions in the business world, a free Placement Bureau is maintained. Last year all graduates who registered with the Placement Bureau secured positions. All students may register with the Bureau and receive this service free of charge. The Bureau, of course, not only offers services for business graduates and undergraduates, but for those students in other fields as well. As a part of the service, arrangements are made for such large organizations as Proctor and Gamble, Swift and Company and others to send representatives to the campus to interview candidates.

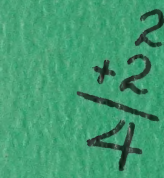
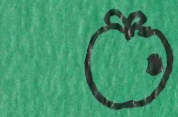
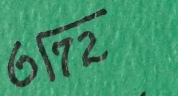
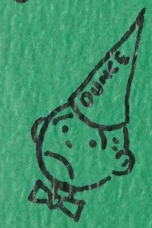
An exciting career awaits you today in teaching . . . the tidal wave of enrollment in elementary and high schools has necessitated more teachers . . . better opportunities await you . . . new schools are being constructed . . . facilities are being expanded . . . upsurge of public interest in our schools is prevalent.



Because of its importance in molding American youth into better citizens, teaching is today a highly respected and important profession . . . good teachers safeguard the future development and prosperity of the country through the training they give to young people . . . teaching is a personal service to one's country and community.







Consider your future as a teacher . . . salary schedules are rising . . . most schools have retirement plans . . . buildings, equipment and the curriculum are being modernized . . . teaching offers a stimulating challenge for those who enjoy working with young people . . . new emphasis on education for rural youth and the expansion of pre-school and adult education programs means unlimited opportunities in creative activities for young people with ideas and imagination.

Education: a distinguished profession

You too can teach!

If you have a genuine interest in people, a desire to train American youth and wish to be an important community leader, teaching can provide exciting opportunities for you. Teaching in the better elementary and high schools usually requires completion of four years of college training with a bachelors degree. Most states permit students to follow a definite program of studies in order to qualify for a teaching certificate. This course (especially in liberal arts colleges) is sufficiently broad so that one is qualified to work in other fields in addition to education.

for You?

Carthage College is a liberal arts school with a limited enrollment offering excellent teacher training. Through its program of personalized education, one may readily qualify for teaching certificates in the various states. Programs for elementary and high school training are offered with opportunities for practice teaching and the selection of majors in a variety of fields. In addition to teaching, students may emphasize such fields as home economics, physical education, history, English, speech, journalism, biology, chemistry, business, music, mathematics, physics, art and languages. A free placement service is also available for all graduates.

for . . . CAREER TRAINING

ON THE cover of this folder is an artist's conception of the new chapel and Mildred Mitchell Music Hall now being built at Carthage College. This half-million dollar building will give the college some of the finest facilities available in the middle-west for music study.

The Music Hall will include classrooms, studios, practice rooms, listening rooms, offices, music library, robing rooms and radio studios. One unusual feature of the building will be the two story rehearsal room large enough to include the combined college Orchestra and the 200 voice Oratorio chorus. The room will also be used by the Band and A Cappella Choir for rehearsals. The Chapel has been designed so that it may be used for concerts, recitals and other special musical activities.

Carthage offers a well-rounded course of instruction for those who wish to make a vocation of music. It also provides excellent opportunities for students who wish to participate in musical activities for aesthetic development.

The bachelor of music degree is offered to those who wish to major in the Public School Music—General Supervisor Course. Students may also major in piano, voice, organ or instrumental music. A bachelor of arts degree with a major in music may also be earned. Students may elect to take courses in music even though their major interest may lie in some other field.

AND AESTHETIC DEVELOPMENT

THE COLLEGE offers a variety of extra-curricular activities in music available to all students.

The A Cappella Choir has been called "one of the nation's great choirs". In 1951 the Choir celebrated its 25th anniversary by touring the Eastern Seaboard. A notable "first" was scored when it sang at New York's Radio City Music Hall as guest choir at the Easter Dawn service. Professor Elmer Hanke is director and founder of the Choir. It is one of the oldest touring college choirs in the mid-west.

The College Band has both a marching unit for athletic contests and the formal concert unit which plays several programs during the year.

The Oratorio, the Chapel Choir, the Trinity Choir, the Orchestra, vocal and instrumental ensembles are other musical activities open to students.

A regular recital program is also maintained so that students may demonstrate their musicianship and gain needed experience in public appearance.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION AT

Carthage College offers a variety of athletic activities available to all students. As part of the program, it has regular inter-collegiate competition in football, basketball, baseball, track, tennis, golf, cross country, wrestling and boxing. Those men winning athletic letters automatically become members of the "C" Club, campus lettermen's organization. One unusual feature of the club's activities is the "C" Club Glee Club which presents a full concert each spring.

The college is a member of the College Conference of Illinois (Little Nine). Other colleges belonging to the conference are: Wheaton, Lake Forest, Illinois Wesleyan, Millikin, Augustana, Elmhurst, Illinois College and North Central.

Athletic participation for all students is stressed through an extensive intramural program on the campus. Intramural teams participate in touch football, basketball, volleyball, ping pong, softball and golf.

The Women's Athletic Association at Carthage College sponsors participation in field hockey, speedball, soccer, basketball, ping pong, volleyball, archery, badminton, tennis, softball, swimming, hiking and shuffleboard. The national honorary sorority for women majors and minors in physical education, Alpha Sigma Nu, also has a chapter on the campus.

MEN

At Carthage College, students prepare for a career in physical education through actual participation in athletics. This is supplemented with classroom work in recreation, health, physiology, anatomy and other courses pertaining to physical development. By majoring or minoring in physical education, a student may obtain training which will prepare him for coaching, teaching, Y.M.C.A. work, or in other forms of social work.

The college's field house has both a men's and a women's gym.

WOMEN

The program for women fulfils the requirements for teaching physical education, Y.W.C.A. work, playground supervising and other phases of physical education. Both men and women may earn a bachelor of science or a bachelor of arts degree with a major in physical education. Students may also elect to take courses in physical education even though their major interest may lie in some other field.

SPECIAL INFORMATION

As part of the athletic program at Carthage College, excellent facilities are provided. Among these are:

- The Slagle tennis courts
- The Annie Reyer Athletic field for women
- The lighted football field
- Two practice fields
- Training area for track and field
- Free golf privileges on the course at Carthage Lake
- A modern field house equipped with both men's and women's gymnasium
- New baseball diamond
- Swimming classes and splash parties at the Y.M.C.A. pool at nearby Keokuk, Iowa is a liberal arts college with high academic standards that offers fully accredited preparation in a Christian frame of reference. Students may take full four-year training in a variety of fields, such as business, Christian service, coaching, home economics, music and teaching. After completing this four-year program, students may receive a bachelor of arts, a bachelor of science or a bachelor of music degree.

CARTHAGE COLLEGE BULLETIN

For those who wish to prepare for other professions, Carthage College offers pre-professional training in the following areas:

PRE-MEDICAL—The college has an outstanding record for the placement of students in the best medical schools . . . "pre-meds" receive individual attention with the best instruction . . . in the past two years, all students who maintained high grades and who desired to take advanced training were accepted by medical schools!

PRE-TECHNICIAN — Many Carthage graduates are now serving as technicians in hospitals and medical centers all over the country . . . excellent facilities and personalized instruction.

PRE-OSTEOPATHIC—A four-year program offering a liberal arts background and specialization in biology and chemistry . . . electives may be taken in business, history, languages, etc.

PRE-PHARMACEUTICAL — The two-year course will fulfill the requirements of all pharmacy schools . . . courses are taken in chemistry, languages, speech, biology, religion, physical education, English, philosophy and physics.

PRE-NURSING—This consists of a three-year course which will assist students to obtain responsible positions in hospitals upon completion of nurses' training . . . excellent preparation for specialization in nursing.

PRE-AGRICULTURE—For those who desire to enter scientific agriculture, Carthage College offers a two-year program . . . courses are taken in chemistry, biology and the liberal arts.

PRE-VETERINARIAN—A four-year program which qualifies participants to enter the best veterinary schools . . . a liberal arts background with specialization in biology and chemistry.

PRE-FORESTRY—The two-year course prepares students to transfer to technical forestry schools.

PRE-THERAPY—The two-year program qualifies students to enter advanced work at another institution . . . many students complete a full four-year physical education program and obtain positions as therapists upon graduation.

PRE-THEOLOGY—A B.A. degree is usually received in this program to prepare students for entering seminaries . . . participants emphasize courses in religion . . . training is also received in languages, English, speech, social science, philosophy and psychology.

PRE-LIBRARY SCIENCE—The best library schools require a college degree for entrance . . . Carthage's four-year course includes modern languages, English and other phases of the liberal arts.

PRE- LAW—Students preparing for law usually major in history and political science, and a general liberal arts background is recommended by most law schools. A scholarship in the Valparaiso University Law School is available each year to a pre-law student who has had three or four years of work at Carthage College with a high scholastic standing.

PRE-ENGINEERING — Carthage College and the Illinois Institute of Technology maintain a combination engineering program. Students in the program enroll at Carthage for three years, then transfer to I.I.T. for two years. At the end of the five year course, a B.A. degree is awarded from Carthage and a B.S. degree from I.I.T. The program provides training in chemical, civil, electrical, mechanical and industrial engineering.

PRE-DENTISTRY—The four-year course will fulfill the requirements for dentistry schools . . . liberal arts courses are taken with emphasis in biology . . . Carthage graduates are readily admitted to the best dentistry schools in the country.

PRE-SOCIAL SERVICE—Studies in this program are centered around the social sciences . . . much practical work is given students in the youth center in nearby Keokuk, Iowa . . . field trips are also taken to acquaint students with actual social service work.

PRE-JOURNALISM — Students may attend Carthage from two to four years and then transfer to a journalism school, or they may immediately enter the field upon graduation . . . practical experience is given on "The Indian", school newspaper, and "The Crimson Rambler", college yearbook . . . several Carthage graduates have been accepted with assistantships to the best journalism schools in the country . . . courses are offered in editing, writing, production and radio.

PRE-MORTICIAN — Students may take from two to four years of training in biology and chemistry, then transfer to mortuary schools . . . such training fits the individual better for his advanced work.
